Obtaining Vehicle Collision Reports Easier than Ever for Hoosiers

Indianapolis, Indiana; May 30, 2007 — The State of Indiana has unveiled a new service aimed at making it easier for Hoosier motorists to obtain copies of vehicle collision reports.

The BuyCrash.com website allows users to access all collision reports investigated in the State of Indiana. Individuals can locate, view and purchase copies of their vehicle collision reports from the comfort of their own homes. There's no need to wait in line or return to the county where the accident occurred.

All law enforcement agencies must submit a report for every collision they investigate into the State's central repository. Indiana state law requires that an agency submit each report within 24 hours of completing the investigation

BuyCrash.com allows individuals to search the central repository and locate their collision report, regardless of which agency investigated the collision. Reports submitted by local police departments, sheriff's departments and Indiana State Police are all available in one convenient location.

To obtain a copy of a collision report, individuals can simply go to BuyCrash.com, enter a few simple pieces of information – such as last name and date of collision – and locate their report.

The State of Indiana engaged Holt, Sheets & Associates to design, implement, and maintain this new web service.
